Preface

Instruments

Flute in C | Clarinet in Bb | Piano | Amplified Violin (with wah-wah pedal and distortion) | Violin | Cello

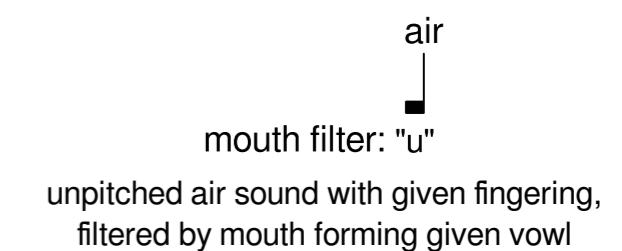

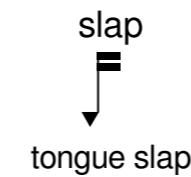

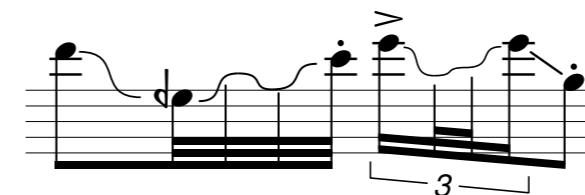

The score is not in C. Accidentals apply for the rest of the respective bar.

Flute

In G2, stop blowing and hold breath, but keep playing with fingers. Key noise should be allowed to occur naturally.

Clarinet

In G2, stop blowing and hold breath, but keep playing with fingers. Key noise should be allowed to occur naturally.

Piano

When the sustain pedal is not explicitly notated, it may still be used ad lib. All glissandi are on white keys only.

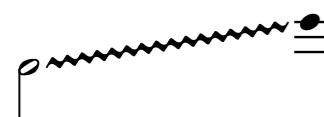

In G2, keys are pressed silently. The pedal should be operated normally, i.e. with no specific sounding force.

All Strings

Only play vibrato when indicated.

chop Drop the bow onto muted strings II and III in a horizontal direction (meaning: down the length of the strings instead of perpendicular to them), followed by an abrupt decrease of bow speed and an increase of pressure when the bow hits the strings. The result is a short percussive sound. The technique is well documented online.

a glissando modulated by a rather irregular and large vibrato

clb

clb saltando (free in time, the written amount of notes is approximate) finger perc.

high bow pressure with audible pitch (not overpressure)

l.h.

glissando, following the approximately notated pitch curve

In G2, stop using the bow and hold breath, but keep playing with left hand. Any noise on fingerboard should just happen and not be forced: Do not play finger percussion!

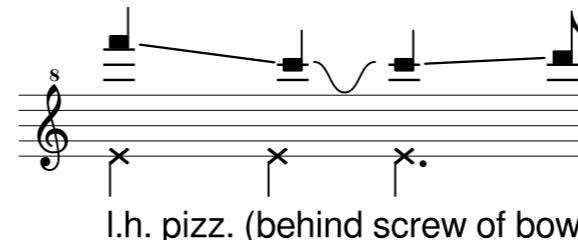

Cello

hand slap on fingerboard

Amplified Violin

slide with screw of bow

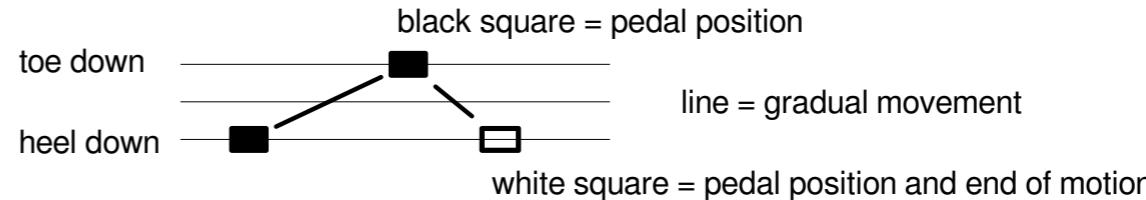

l.h. pizz. (behind screw of bow)

Use the metal screw of the bow to play „bottleneck-style“ (= like a slide guitar): As the right hand is holding the bow while it moves over the strings (positions indicated by square noteheads), the strings are plucked using the left hand. The pitch will thus be higher when a lower note is written, because the opposite part of the strings sounds.

Pedals

The wah-wah and volume pedals are notated in a three-line stave. It generally follows the rhythmic structure of the main violin stave above.

The fourth staff is for Amplified Violin (Amp. Vln.), which is mostly silent. The fifth staff is for Violin (Vln.), showing eighth-note patterns with dynamics p, mf, and ppp. The bottom staff is for Cello (Vc.), also with eighth-note patterns and dynamics p, mf, and ppp. There is a dynamic instruction (ord.) poco vibrato above the Cello staff. Measure numbers 20 and 3 are indicated at the beginning of each staff.
